Important information

How much can I claim as a superannuation tax deduction in 2009/10?

The full amount of the superannuation contributions made are tax deductible if you are self-employed.

May 2009 Budget

In its May 2009 Budget, the Federal Government announced that, with effect from 1 July 2009, the allowable amount of concessional contributions will be decreased during the 2009/10 to 2011/12 years as follows:

- for persons under 50 years, a decrease from $50,000 p.a. to $25,000 p.a.
- and
- for persons over 50 years, a decrease from $100,000 p.a. to $50,000 p.a.

Are you entitled to a deduction for your superannuation contributions?

You can claim a superannuation deduction only if you can answer "Yes" to one of the following:

1. You were wholly self-employed during 2009/10.
2. If you were not wholly self-employed, none of the people you worked for were required to provide you with superannuation support by either sponsoring you superannuation or by paying a Superannuation Guarantee Charge.
3. Your assessable income, exempt income and reportable fringe benefits from eligible employment is less than 10% of your total assessable income and reportable fringe benefits.

Please note: The Trustee cannot accept a Section 290-170 notice in respect of superannuation contributions that have been subject to a Superannuation Contributions Splitting application. The Section 290-170 must be submitted and accepted by the Trustee prior to any contributions splitting application.

Employment declaration

Accepting Personal Contributions

If you are aged between 65 and 74, you are required to complete a declaration confirming your employment each financial year in which you or your employer contributes into your superannuation account.

To be eligible to contribute you must have been gainfully employed for at least 40 hours within a period of 30 consecutive days in the financial year in which you or your employer made a contribution.

Declaration

By selecting "NO", you acknowledge that legalsuper will not be able to accept your contribution. Your contribution will be returned to you.

By selecting "YES", you declare that all the information supplied by you on this form is correct and that you have supplied legalsuper your tax file number.

Voluntary cashing of benefits

If you wish to withdraw your benefit you can obtain a benefit payment advice form by calling legalsuper on 1800 060 312.
